

Senate dodges voting on declaration of war

No end in sight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By a vote of 78 to 7, the Senate Tuesday refused to take a vote on a declaration of war against North Vietnam.

The overwhelming vote was on a motion to table—and thus end consideration of—an amendment offered by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, reading: "A state of war is hereby formally declared to exist between the United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam); and the President is hereby authorized and directed to employ the entire naval and military forces of the United States and the resources of the government to carry on war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

Gravel, perhaps the Senate's most outspoken dove, said he would have voted against the declaration if he had managed to force a vote on it.

"I don't want a war there ...," he said. "Maybe we could make it clear to the President if there are sufficient 'no' votes that there isn't sufficient support for this war."

He said the North Vietnamese offer no threat to this nation and yet Americans continue to kill North Vietnamese.

"We ought to at least have the gumption to look them in the face and say, 'We declare war on you,'" he said.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Senate would be misunderstood no matter how it voted on the Gravel proposal. The best course, he argued successfully, was to table the motion.

The issue was debated, in a three-quarters empty chamber, for less than half an hour.

Gravel's motion appeared to be to point up what he considered the irony of eight years of American combat in an undeclared war which has lasted longer than any declared war in which the United States was involved.

Gravel's amendment was offered to a bill sponsored by Javits designed to put limits on the war-making power of a president in future conflicts.

In general, the bill would require a president to obtain advance approval from Congress before committing troops to an overseas conflict.

When a situation arose requiring swift U.S. military response, the president could commit troops. But congressional consent would have to be obtained within 30 days or the troops would have to be disengaged.

Javits' bill is backed by two powerful senators who rarely agree on military matters—Chairman John

C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee and Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee.

By a 60-26 vote, the Senate rejected a motion by conservative Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., to send the measure to the Judiciary Committee for 45 days consideration of its constitutionality. Hruska argued the bill violates the Constitution by diminishing a president's war making power in his role as commander-in-chief.

Gravel was defeated 74 to 11 on another amendment which would have made the bill apply to the Vietnam War—not just wars in the future. President Nixon would have been required, under Gravel's proposal, to obtain congressional consent for continuing American participation in the war within 15 days of the bill's enactment into law.

Air attacks to intensify

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Adm. Thomas H. Moorer said Tuesday that "the situation has been stabilized" in Vietnam in the past 48 hours, and left the impression with congressmen in day-long briefings that the United States would soon intensify its air and firepower support.

Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, declined to give newsmen the immediate outlook or long-range prospects in South Vietnam's battle to turn back the Communist invasion from the north.

He did volunteer the opinion that "the South Vietnamese are fighting extremely well" without the benefit of full U.S. air support, denied because of bad flying weather.

Members of the House Armed Services and Appropriations Committees, however, emerged from private sessions with Moorer to predict that the tide of battle would turn decisively in favor of the allies once the skies clear over North Vietnam.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., the Armed Services chairman, said "we'll be able to turn on the big guns" once the weather breaks in the next few days. He predicted this would bring victory to the allies and a subsequent Communist willingness to negotiate.

Moorer refused any comment on U.S. strategy plans, saying "we keep our options open." But Hebert specifically denied there was any thought of redeploying U.S. ground troops to Vietnam.

"No, no," said Hebert, "there's no intention to send American ground troops back in."

According to Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif., Moorer said the Communists had taken nothing of strategic value in the nearly two weeks since their major offensive began, but that if large cities now under siege were to fall, "then you would have a big psychological problem...it would be significant."

While Moorer testified during the morning, Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said the situation had become "rather static." But neither he nor Moorer would predict an end to the latest escalation of the fighting.

Mrs. Anette Gilly is whisked into courthouse by police.

Mrs. Gilly pleads guilty after making deal for life

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—After making a deal with the state to escape the death penalty, Mrs. Anette Gilly, 32, pleaded guilty Tuesday in the 1969 pay-for-slay murder of United Mine Workers (UMW) official Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski.

Mrs. Gilly, in a brief appearance before Judge Charles G. Sweet, pleaded guilty one count of conspiracy and three counts of murder and agreed to testify against her father, Silas Hudleston, 62, of LaPorte, Tenn., and other unidentified persons.

In return, the state agreed not to ask the death penalty for the blonde Cleveland housewife, whose husband, Paul, and Aubran W. Martin, also of Cleveland, were convicted earlier of the murder of Yablonski, his wife and daughter in their Clarksville, Pa. home.

Claude Vealey, also of Cleveland, pleaded guilty early in the case and testified against Gilly and Martin. Vealey has not been sentenced but juries have set the death penalty for Gilly and Martin.

Mrs. Gilly was brought into court by plainclothes officers who carried seven rifles, a shotgun and a submachine gun in the most intense show of security since the trials began in the fall of 1971.

Mrs. Gilly signed a 22-page statement last April 4 in Philadelphia which was introduced in court, but was ordered impounded by Judge Sweet. The statement will be used to seek indictments against the unidentified persons.

"It is not expedient to make her statement public at this time," Sweet said, "when there appears to be a couple of new trials to be held soon."

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague of Philadelphia, questioned Mrs. Gilly who replied, "yes," when asked this question:

"You are admitting that between July 1, 1969 and Dec. 31, 1969 you conspired with Claude E. Vealey, Aubran W. Martin, Paul E. Gilly and Silas Hudleston and other persons to murder Joseph A. Yablonski?"

The new evidence supplied by Mrs. Gilly will be presented to a grand jury later this week. Although no names were revealed in court, earlier reports were that Mrs. Gilly named her "contacts" as being from UMW District 19 in Kentucky and Tennessee.

In Vealey's confession and testimony, he said Gilly, Martin and he were paid $5,100 to kill Yablonski who was murdered three weeks after he lost the UMW election to incumbent President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

Mrs. Gilly was brought from a hotel in Philadelphia, where she had been secluded by her FBI agent interrogators, by sheriff's deputies and state policemen.

Charged with tax evasion, perjury

Grand jury indicts congressman

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, a World War II hero and seven-term Democratic congressman, has been charged with tax evasion, perjury, and helping two former Jersey City officials, now in jail, to conceal their incomes and evade taxes, it was announced Tuesday.

In Washington Gallagher denied any wrongdoing. He called the indictment "political" and said it was perpetrated by "a secret police society in the United States."

"I am not the accused," he said at a Capitol Hill news conference. "I am the target." He said he would amplify his remarks about a "secret police society" in a speech to the House.

A federal grand jury charged Gallagher, 51, with perjury for testifying that $534,000 worth of bearer bonds he bought from 1960 through 1967 were for the local Democratic party when they actually were for himself.

The conspiracy counts charged that Gallagher received a total of $326,000 in cash from Thomas M. Flaherty, former Jersey City Council president, and used phony initials, names and symbols to convert it into bonds which he turned over to Flaherty and former Jersey City Mayor Thomas J. Whelan, who stashed them along with another $700,000 in secret, numbered bank accounts in Florida.

Whelan and Flaherty were convicted with six others of extortion and conspiracy last July 5 in a multimillion dollar shakedown scheme and are serving 15-year terms in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Gallagher was linked to the case only for allegedly handling money described at the trial as graft from contractors.

Dope pusher to serve life imprisonment

HARRISBURG (UPI)—A Dauphin County judge sentenced a three-time narcotics loser to life imprisonment Tuesday.

The maximum sentence was imposed on James S. "Zootie" Meyers, 48, for his conviction Feb. 1 for selling heroin to a state police undercover agent. It was his third narcotics conviction.

Judge John C. Dowling told Meyers he was receiving the life sentence because of his "life of crime" dating back more than 30 years.

"It is time we stopped being concerned about your rehabilitation and start worrying about the victims of your crimes," Dowling said.

The arrest which led to his third conviction came on Oct. 27, 39 days after he had been paroled from his second sentence.

District Attorney LeRoy Zimmerman had asked for the life sentence saying that narcotics had produced "a new kind of slavery."

Under the 1961 Drug Device and Cosmetic Act, a judge can impose a life sentence in a narcotics case if a defendant has been convicted twice previously on narcotics charges and the third time for sale.

Juvenile delinquency rate for girls shows increase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Juvenile delinquency among girls aged 10-17 rose twice as fast as crime involving boys from 1969 to 1970, a government crime report said Tuesday. It blamed the "more aggressive ... more independent" behavior of girls.

In 1970, the report said juvenile courts for the first time handled more than one million cases involving boys and girls. Courts in rural areas showed a 13 per cent increase over the previous year and courts in cities and suburbs reported 6 per cent increases.

But the Health, Education and Welfare Department study said the rate of increase in delinquency cases slowed for the first time in five years.

"The rise in girls' delinquency has generally been attributed to their changing attitude towards society and society's changing attitude towards them," the report said.

"Instead of the passive role assumed by girls in the past and society's protective role towards them, girls are becoming more aggressive and more independent in their day-to-day activities."

"Unfortunately, some of this behavior has resulted in large increases in the incidences of running away from home and in ... the use of drugs, often necessitating other crime-related activities such as shoplifting, robbery, etc."

The report said that although delinquency is still primarily a boy's problem, the boy-to-girl ratio of court referrals narrowed from 4-1 in mid-1960s to 3-1 in 1970.

For the period covered by the study, girls' court cases showed a one-year increase of 7 per cent in suburbs, 11 per cent in cities and 20 per cent in rural areas for a national increase of 10 per cent. Boys' cases increased 5 per cent. The population growth of children aged 10-17 during the period was 2 per cent.

Of the 1,052,000 juvenile court cases in 1970, based on a national sample, 799,500 involved boys and 252,500 girls. Other crimes covered by the statistics included aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft, and truancy but not traffic violations.

Tornado hits St. Louis

ST. LOUIS — A tornado slashed across a suburban area north of St. Louis, Mo., Tuesday. First reports said at least one person was killed and more than 30 injured. Thunderstorms and hail raked central and southern Illinois and tornado watches were posted for portions of Illinois and Indiana. The National Weather Service said one person was killed by the twister in Florissant, in north St. Louis County, and at least 30 persons were taken to a hospital with injuries.

Humphrey blasts price board

PITTSBURGH — Presidential aspirant Hubert H. Humphrey lashed the administration's Price Commission a "hoax" Tuesday and said the working man has been left out of President Nixon's governmental organization. In hard-hitting language, the Minnesota senator and former vice president told steelworkers in Pittsburgh that the Nixon administration knows nothing about the working man. "They don't understand jobs, they don't understand labor, they don't understand you," the Democratic contender said.

Nixon policy scored

WASHINGTON — Nixon's Latin American policy was scored by Gale Plaza, secretary-general of the Organization of American States. Declaring there is widespread concern over the state of inter-American cooperation, Plaza opened the OAS conference by calling for a concrete definition of U.S. policy toward Latin America. In subsequent days, the meeting is expected to produce charges by both Chile and Ecuador that the U.S. has violated the OAS charter. (Details on page 2.)

Vietnam base surrounded

SAIGON — Enemy troops surrounded a key South Vietnamese base, threatening a vital U.S. post and Hue. The North Vietnamese have cut both air and ground supply to the Saigon base, 10 miles south of Hue. If the base falls, the enemy will have a clear road to a key U.S. post at Phu Bai and to the only other South Vietnamese base protecting Hue. U.S. officers rushed 500 GIs from Da Nang to Phu Bai, and military sources said U.S. forces in the area would be bolstered by newly assigned aircraft and ships.

Gang warfare erupts

NEW YORK — Gang warfare has erupted in New York. Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy acknowledged. He said "six or seven or more" underworld figures have been executed in the past two weeks. It's likely, he said, that the rash of killings was the result of a feud between the "families" of Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo, murdered last week, and Joseph Colombo Sr., wounded last June in an assassination attempt. Reduction called 'disaster'

Teamsters oppose milk price cut

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Union officials representing some 145,000 teamsters across the state sent Gov. Milton J. Shapp a telegram Tuesday asking him to halt any action by the Milk Marketing Board to lower the price of milk in Western Pennsylvania.

The telegram, signed by Edward Nangle, president of Teamsters Joint Council No. 33 in Philadelphia, and Thomas Fagan, president of No. 40 in Pittsburgh, said a reduction would mean "disaster" for all concerned.

The meeting, attended by representatives of 12 teamsters locals, was called after it was learned that the board planned to cut the price of milk sold in stores in Western Pennsylvania by eight cents a gallon.

It had been reported that a vote would be taken on a statewide teamsters "work holiday."

However, William Kaiser, president of one of the locals, said that only the telegram to Shapp was decided on at the meeting.

"We're first going to meet with all the farmers, and then with the governor and somewhere from there we're going to form an opinion," Kaiser said.

The telegram urged Shapp to establish new milk hearings to receive testimony "relative to the current economic conditions."

"If the contemplated reduction was put into effect we strongly believe the industry would be jeopardized and thousands of jobs would be endangered. The state of Pennsylvania needs more jobs, not fewer," the Teamsters said.

The Teamsters urged Shapp to suspend any milk pricing orders until a meeting of dairy employees, the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and the dairy industry could be organized.

Attorneys join price opposition

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Attorneys for the milk industry told the Milk Marketing Board Tuesday that some dealers cannot survive an 8-cent retail price drop in western Pennsylvania.

Members of the board heard arguments for three hours on a proposed order to cut the retail minimum price from $1.26 to $1.18 in a 13-county area of the state.

Harry Kapleau, chairman of the board, said the meeting was continued until April 24 in Pittsburgh. The final order will be issued about May 1, he said.

Kapleau said he and the two other board members heard arguments from attorneys for the Greater Pittsburgh Dealers Association, the Dairyman's League, Milk Inc., the City of Pittsburgh, and three consumers.

He said the dealers association indicated some of its members might be forced out of business with a price cut. "I've also received a number of letters to that effect," Kapleau said.

The meeting was closed to the public, but Kapleau said most of the time was consumed by arguments from the dealers association.

Steward guilty of improper conduct but not prosecuted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department said Tuesday that U. S. Attorney Harry Steward of San Diego was guilty of "highly improper" conduct, but it decided to clear him of all charges for the sake of public confidence in law enforcement.

Henry M. Petersen, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that Steward had displayed bad judgment in interfering with a government organized-crime investigation of the man who got Steward his job.

"He should have known better," Petersen said. "He was an experienced prosecutor."

But Petersen said he and acting Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst felt that Steward had done nothing serious enough to warrant dismissal.

The department decided it "would take a stand which backed Steward in the eyes of the public," and issued a statement in February expressing "full confidence" in him, Petersen said.

The committee Tuesday entered a new phase of its monthly hearing into Kleindienst's nomination to succeed John M. Mitchell, who resigned March 1 as attorney general. A Senate vote on Kleindienst has been delayed indefinitely by the investigation.

Until this week, the committee had focused on Kleindienst's role in the settlement of a controversial antitrust case last year involving the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT), and suggestions of a connection with an ITT offer to underwrite costs of the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

In another development in that phase of the case, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., charged that the Justice Department had failed to inform the committee that the doctor who treated ITT lobbyist Dita Beard in a Denver hospital when she testified to a committee delegation last month was himself under investigation.

Kennedy said Dr. L. M. Radetsky, an osteopathic cardiologist, was under investigation for Medicare fraud. Only five days before Mrs. Beard's bedside testimony about a memorandum she allegedly wrote about the ITT settlement, the Health, Education and Welfare Department referred Radetsky's Medicare case to the U. S. attorney in Denver for prosecution, Kennedy said the matter is still pending.

It was Radetsky who called off Mrs. Beard's testimony, Feb. 27 when she was stricken with what he called an angina attack. Kennedy said the committee failed to inform the committee about Radetsky before it relied heavily on his medical judgments about Mrs. Beard.

Petersen said no one in the department here knew of HEW's request for Radetsky's prosecution until Tuesday. He said his division's fraud section received a call from the U. S. attorney's office in Denver March 27, asking for information on how to proceed in Medicare fraud cases, "but naming no names. We sent them some indictment forms. But no names of defendants were mentioned."

Petersen confirmed Life's claim that Steward demanded cancellation of a subpoena issued by the department's organized crime strike force for Frank A. Thornton.

Supply blamed for high prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail beef prices jumped early this year because of a short-run supply drop — not because of any profiteering by retailers, a food chain spokesman told Congress Tuesday.

Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains, told a House subcommittee investigating beef costs that prices have already turned down and will

Gangland slayings continue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Renewed gangland warfare in the streets of New York City yielded up the body of its seventh victim in 13 days Tuesday, and Mayor John V. Lindsay expressed concern for the safety of "innocent people."

The mounting number of underworld executions underscored a slain mobster's sister's grim prediction that "the streets are going to run red with blood."

The latest victim in what Lindsay called "a rash of gangland killings" was identified as Richard R. Grossman, 36, whose body was found in the trunk of a car parked in Brooklyn.

Brooklyn medical examiner Dominick J. Di Maio said Grossman had been dead from three to seven days with one bullet lodged in his brain.

Grossman had been under indictment and awaiting trial on charges of possession of stolen credit cards and had a previous arrest record on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to rape.

Federal sources said Grossman had connections with the crime family headed by Joseph Colombo Sr., who was critically wounded in an assassination attempt last June.

Although police have never been able to link the Colombo shooting to the Gallo gang, 16 men with known underworld ties have since been murdered, including three executed after the Gallo killing.

1,000 tremors hit Iran as army digs out victims

TEHRAN (UPI) — Army rescue teams worked around the clock Tuesday, digging victims of Monday's devastating earthquake from the rubble of their homes, as another 1,000 minor tremors rocked southern Iran.

The official news agency Pars said 4,000 persons died in the quake in the province of Fars, 610 miles south of the capital. However, Pars added, "This report still is not officially confirmed."

One thousand tremors of varying intensity have been recorded in Fars Province since the major shock reduced most of the villages in the area to heaps of debris, a spokesman for the University of Teheran

Geographical Department said.

The initial shock razed 45 of the 60 villages and measured 7.0 on the 10-point Richter Scale. It was the most severe earthquake of the past decade, the university spokesman said.

In the village of Ghir alone, 963 persons were killed.

Rescue squads carefully probed the wreckage of adobe dwellings with hand shovels and picks, sometime guided by the cries of victims buried beneath.

Each new tremor brought the risk of fresh landslides and hampered the arrival of rescue equipment, medical supplies and teams of relief workers.

Senators support pay hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Labor subcommittee Tuesday unanimously approved a minimum wage bill that would boost the hourly minimum to $2.20 for more than 50 million workers.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., agreed to raise the present $1.60 minimum to $1.80 after 60 days, $2 a year later, and to $2.20 a year after that. A House-passed measure would increase the minimum to a flat $2.

The bill, which now goes to the full Labor and Public Welfare Committee, would expand minimum wage coverage to include more than six million state and local government employees not now covered under the program. It also would raise the hourly minimum for farm workers to $2.20 in three steps from the current $1.30 minimum, and cover an additional 150,000 farm workers.

The subcommittee also for the first time voted to place age restrictions on allowable child farm labor. The bill would make it illegal for children under 12 to be employed, allowing children between 12 and 14 to work only with their parents' consent.

OAS opens 10-day conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gale Plaza, secretary general of the Organization of American States (OAS), opened the 24-nation organization's annual foreign ministers conference Tuesday with a thinly veiled attack on President Nixon's Latin American policy.

"Interamerican cooperative relations should be purged of the political factors that still affect them," he told the foreign ministers, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, in the Pan American Union's Hall of the Americas.

Plaza asked the administration to make a "concrete definition" of its policy toward Latin America. "The absence of such a definition has adversely affected the conduct of interamerican relations," he said.

During the 10-day conference, the Marxist government of Chilean President Salvador Allende intends to raise the issue of alleged involvement in his country's internal politics by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT).

Chile's chief delegate, Anibal Palma, said the ITT issue was only one of several his government would bring up.

VW asks delay in exhaust law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Volkswagen officials testified Tuesday that their best exhaust cleanup devices fail to meet federal standards while sharply increasing gasoline consumption and cutting engine efficiency.

The German automobile maker and American Motors Corp. (AMC), the first U.S. manufacturer to testify, urged the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to delay for one year the exhaust pollution limits mandated by law for 1975 models.

Guard battles with moths

EAST STROUDSBURG — Gypsy moth egg masses sustained an attack by National Guardsmen from the Kemp Armory in East Stroudsburg over the weekend.

The battle took place in a forested area of Northampton County between the reservoirs of West Bangor and Pen Argyl. The guardsmen charged the egg masses with paint brushes and creosote-kerosene in an attempt to reduce defoliation by the moth.

The selection of the creosote weaponry was made in cooperation with a state-belt ecology group in an effort to avoid spraying the mountainous area with the chemical agent "dylux".

While a contingency of the guardsmen were blitzing moth eggs in the state belt, East Stroudsburg's Company "C", trained at its weekend training site in Stroud Township.

Scheduled to train in Indian Gap, the unit was halted by the weather.

Unfortunately, due to weather conditions which developed and were forecast for the weekend, we were prevented from going to Indian Gap for training," said Captain Anthony J. Mangano, commander of the local unit.

Looking forward to better weather next month, the guardsmen will be making the furthest trip ever taken by a Pennsylvania Guard Unit.

Tactical training and preparation for a two week summer encampment will highlight the weekend. The guardsmen will be used to the training site, instead of taking to the highway in organic two and a half ton trucks.

I-80 troop gets new prowler car

MOUNT POCONO — The Pennsylvania State Police of the Mount Pocono barracks have received their first new blue and gold patrol car and are currently utilizing the flashy new addition for regular patrols along Monroe County segments of Interstate Route 80.

The new color car is the first of seven cars that will be received by the local interstate patrol over a two-year period as the state phases out the old green and white cruisers.

Troopers of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and the states interstate patrol network will be the only members of the state police force to be driving the blue and gold machines while the old "green and whites" will continue to be used for patrols on state roads.

The blue and gold color was chosen for the new cars in keeping with the practice of many other states of displaying the state colors.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Boundary lines of three area telephone companies separate the rural West End into three distinct districts. This is the first in a four-part series on the problem.

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter

EFFORT — For nearly 20 years boundary lines of three area telephone companies have divided the rural West End into three distinct social groups.

Some Effort residents pay a toll charge to call a neighbor across the street. Some Brodheadsville youngsters add toll charges to their parents' phone bill each time they call a school chum in Gilbert. And some Kresgeville residents must make long distance calls in order to get in touch with the West End doctor, the West End pharmacy, or the Brodheadsville bank.

In addition to excessive toll charges, many residents object to the placement of boundary lines of Bell, Commonwealth, and Palmetton

Telephone Companies because they claim the need to making distance calls is a major stumbling block in emergency situations.

An Effort resident, for example, who needs to call the West End Fire Company, must dial 46-717-992-4121. Many times long distance circuits are busy. Also, when an individual is under stress, it is comparatively easy to make a mistake when dialing a 12-digit number.

Another bone of contention among the aggravated residents is that the companies' toll system has supposedly segregated the West End into at least two and possibly three distinct social groups. Residents within the Palmetton system tend to fraternize with or do business only with people in the same exchange. Unreasonable toll charges, say some residents, prohibit people from contributing to the growth of the viable West End community.

As early as 1956, according to a representative from the Public Utility Commission, a controversy arose in Effort as to what company would serve area residents.

In 1959 Palmetton Telephone Company was given permission to acquire the Blue Mountain Telephone Company, which had served the area since 1949. Effort residents were then polled and indicated a preference to be served by the Palmetton Company rather than by Commonwealth Telephone.

Now, since many Effort people do business with Brodheadsville businessmen and since the Pleasant Valley School District has become a jointure, many residents want extended service from Palmetton or would rather be served by the Commonwealth Company.

Originally, in 1956, both Commonwealth and Palmetton Telephone Company offered the same degree of service to residents. It was only after Commonwealth and Bell Telephone agreed to offer extended service to the 992 exchange in Saylorsburg and Brodheadsville that Palmetton customers began to complain.

After this F.A.S. (Extended Area Service) agreement, a 992 exchange number (installed by Commonwealth) would allow customers to call Saylorsburg and Stroudsburg free of charge.

Today, many West End residents now served by Palmetton Telephone Company, feel they have a common interest with Brodheadsville and Stroudsburg and would like to be located in the 992 exchange area. The other alternative would be for Commonwealth and Palmetton to extend their services.

Lehigh celebrates spring festival

BETHLEHEM — Lehigh's Student Activities Council, Globus Series in Creative Arts, and the departments of fine arts and music have combined to present a 1972 Spring Festival of the Arts at the University.

This week, the Lehigh Valley area public is invited to join the University community in sharing these arts events, completely free of charge.

Today, visiting Prof. Kenneth Kerslake will present another illustrated lecture, this one on the "Photo Silk Screen Process," at 1:30 p.m. in the University Center.

On Thursday, James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company will conduct a "master class" in modern dance. Beginners should plan to attend between 1:30 and 3:00 p.m.; more advanced dancers between 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Lehigh's Taylor Gymnasium.

This group will perform at Lehigh over a three-day period. James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company are presented by Lehigh's Globus Series in Creative Arts, with the cooperation of the National Endowment for the Arts. Parental guidance may be suggested for children who are planning to attend any of the "master classes," or major performances.

On Friday, Lehigh's Art and Technology Symposium swings into its first day, of a two-day program. Three resident artists from varying campus situations will peak at 1:15 p.m. in the University Center. An artist working in laser beam light environments will talk at 3:15 p.m. in the University Center.

James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company will present a major performance Friday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Grace Hall. Because of the nature of the production, attendance must be limited to 700. Tickets, free upon request at Lehigh's Student Activities Desk, or through the department of fine arts, will be necessary for admission.

Saturday marks the second day of Lehigh's Art and Technology Symposium. Lectures will be offered on: "Historical Monuments," at 10:00 a.m.; "Recent History," at 1:15 p.m.; and "Future Role," at 3:15 p.m., all in the University Center.

On Saturday morning, James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company will present another "master class," from 10:30 a.m. until noon, for children and beginners. That evening the company will present a second major performance to an unlimited audience, at 8:30 p.m. in Lehigh's Grace Hall.

Throughout the weekdays and Saturday, the public is also invited to view the current exhibition of contrasting works from the Bonfoey Gallery (Cleveland, Ohio), and the easel paintings of Philadelphia artist Katharine Steele Renninger, in the Alumni Memorial Building galleries.

This show has been arranged by Lehigh's director of exhibitions Francis J. Quirk.

Gallery hours are from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on weekdays; and from 9:00 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Avoid extremes. Hold the line against confusion and chaos. Seek experienced counsel if stymied in any undertaking.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — In a desire for "greener pastures," you may tend to neglect routine responsibilities. Don't! Attend to "musts" first, and only then take on more desirable activities.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Note Taurus. Under present planetary influences, your advice similar. Be tactful, discreet in dealings with others.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't let the restrictions of routine dampen your ardor for achievement. But, on the other hand, don't overtax yourself. There are judicious limitations for all endeavors.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Line up obligations and handle them with confidence. In free moments, make plans for other activities. A good period in which to cultivate latent talents.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — This day can be a "knockout"! If you are looking for happiness through constructive achievement, you can register a solid victory now. Steady does it!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This day brings new opportunities to use your talents, to expand and benefit in various ways. Do make the most of it!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You can MAKE the spotlight shine on you if you watch your step, put forth best efforts and project hope and confidence. There is a tendency to vacillate, however. Counteract — with steadfastness.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You may have a tendency toward lethargy now. Don't yield to it, since the best intentions in the world will produce nothing if not followed up by solid, constructive effort.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Just as the Capricorn, you, too, may have to discipline yourself sternly to keep on the road to accomplishment now. Be especially careful not to lose self-control if certain persons annoy you.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be patient if temporarily stymied in some project in which you are involved. Some new factors may be up for consideration. Keep eyes and ears open!

Girl trouble

SHE SAID NO: (Q.) Before I met the girl I am having trouble with now, I had a quite in-depth series of dates with another girl. I wanted the same kind of thing with this girl, but she didn't. We had many arguments about sex. The last fight was a big one and it broke us up. Since then I have changed a lot. I know it was all my fault. I have a very strong feeling for her still and I would like to get back with her even if it takes a long time. But my friends tell me I am nuts to wait. What do you think? Wiser in Washington State (A.) If you mean you are willing to wait for her on her own terms, I say good. Write a warm letter asking her forgiveness. Then after a couple of weeks call and ask her for a date. If she is undecided, promise her you won't argue with her about anything. If she says yes, keep your promise. PALEFACE: (Q.) My friends all call me "Paleface" because I have the whitest skin. What can I do to make it darker? Milky in Maryland. (A.) Pale beauty has been celebrated by poets and singers through the ages. Do not be ashamed of it or apologize for it. When you want or need a darker glow you can use a bronzer stick — either along with or under make-up. Be sure to blend it in carefully at your neck so that the white skin won't show. PAST PROBLEM: (Q.) I have known this girl four years and we have gone steady for nine months. I love her very much and hope to marry her soon. She feels the same toward me. The trouble is that before I started going with her she had a very bad reputation with other guys she had dated. I think she has changed. I would like to know what are my chances of a successful marriage with a girl of this background. Serious in Texas (A.) No one can say in advance that a marriage will succeed or that it will fail. Too many factors are involved. You are considering only one. Your girl friend seems to have matured somewhat, and this is one asset to a marriage. But I believe that both you and she are too young to think of getting married now. Do not go into marriage until both of you are very sure of each other. If you had been sure you wouldn't have written me. UNBELIEVED: (Q.) My age is 10 and I know all about sex. I have a girl friend I like an awful lot. My parents think it is a joke for me to have a girl friend.

How do I let them know it isn't? Laughed at in Michigan (A.) I don't know all about sex. You don't either. No one does. Do not boast to your friends or your parents. Do not tell them things that are untrue. Then when you tell them something that is true and real and honest, like your having a girl friend, they will believe you. RACE TRIP: (Q.) My boy friend is an auto race fan and so am I. We want to go to a big race soon. We would drive and would be away from home for two days and one night on a week end.

Another boy and girl would go with us. We would have two tents. The girl and I would sleep in one tent and the boys in the other. My parents don't like the idea. What you think? Ready and Waiting in Florida (A.) You give no ages. If you are high school age, I think not, unless one or more of your parents can go with you.

Absolute bore

As a grandmother, I intend to be an absolute bore about my grandchildren. I intend to travel with a projector, a screen and 200 lifelike slides showing them chewing on chopsticks and standing on their heads. I will produce from my handbag (with or without request) recent urine samples, a tape of them gurgling milk at the dinner table and clever sayings that will put Art Linkletter out of business.

As a mother, however, I refuse to inflict my children on anyone. (God knew what he was doing when he gave them to a dictator.)

Consequently, I often find myself at the mercy of women with Super Children. Super Children are unmitigated joy. They can always be counted on to do and say the right thing. They always make the team, have fewer cavities, skip acne, know what they want to be in the third grade, have their paper displayed at Open House, and always remember to bring home the Mother's Day card from art class.

I have made a study of Super Children and have come to the conclusion that the only difference between Super Children and Normal kids is in the interpretation. For example:

Normal Kids
Forgetful
Fat
Sloppy heists
Weirdo who won't get a haircut
Lazy bum
Flunked out
TV addict
Cut from the team
Forgot me on Mother's Day
Oversleeps in the morning
Super Children
Preoccupied

Healthy
Academically geared Nonconformist
Deep thinker
Victim of a poor teacher
Saved from a prejudiced coach
Is saving his money for my operation
A recessive gene
I recently decided to test my theory on two mothers of Super Children with kids away at college. I ambled over to one and said, "Does Martha write home much from school?"
"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."
"Too bad," she sighed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."
I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"
"Oh, yes," she said, "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said, "I'd worry to have a child so dependent."
I got the feeling I lost the minute I open my mouth.

Pocono fishing spots

STROUDSBURG — Some 46,000 trout have been stocked in Monroe County streams — with another 25,000 slated for in-season stocking.

"It looks like a real good season," predicts Walter Burkhardt, county fish warden. He thinks opening day water will hit about 52 degrees.

With reasonable weather April 15, he foresees 10,000 fishermen flocking to 100 miles of county stocked streams.

And he figures 40 per cent of the stocked trout will be caught — and close to that kept.

A grand total of 5,150 pounds of trout are waiting in the Big Bushkill, with an average size of 10 inches. That stream, the Brodhead, Pocono and Tobyhanna, will see the most fishermen, says Burkhardt.

Here's a list of nearby streams stocked by the fish commission:

But they wish they had

No one starts out fly-fishing

STROUDSBURG — "There isn't a kid in this country who started out fly-fishing," says Andy Charalampos.

But there's many a man who wishes he did, squinting over a midge on those long winter nights and dreaming of the ultimate hatch.

As Charalampos says: "The rewards are always in the future."

If you haven't checked your stream before now, better get to it, figuring where the lies are this year. Because there's a good chance Old Man Winter may have moved a few boulders and not bothered to report it. And then check out what aquatic life is present.

That's Charalampos' ground rule for a good opening day.

Emil Weber's is "fish your way out."

Weber, a state police sergeant, contends it's best to take a short line and make progressively longer casts to fish every inch of water — even though it always looks better by the other shore.

Then stay out of the water if possible. "Ever bang stones together under water?" asks Weber. And he adds since trout look upstream, they can spot a careless fisherman long before his Polaroids cut the water.

Most anglers quit fly-fishing due to improperly balanced outfits, says Weber.

But while he concedes a worm or spinner fisherman can lick the pants off a fly-rodder for the first few weeks, as the water lowers and clears, the men are separated from the boys.

Presentation plays the biggest part; darting and swooping the streamer, casting at a spot a foot above the stream with dry flies so they flutter down naturally, points out Weber.

One method of fishing streamers is "broadsideing," retrieving them across the current as perpendicular to the shore as possible. This gives the lunker more than just a dot to spot.

Charalampos recommends a nearly-forgotten technique called "wet fly fishing on the uptake." The wet fly is allowed to float until the downstream pull causes it to raise.

In such a maneuver, the fly imitates a nymph trying to clear the water to dry its wings. The fly is then pulled back to the fisherman, and Charalampos says "you can catch them at your kneecaps."

Later on, he suggests midges (18 to 22 flies) on small streams. And staying low to the ground. "You can hear a dry fly being slurped without even seeing it."

But he's quick to add wets produce more trout than dries.

"In the energy expended to jump for a dry fly, a trout can literally starve to death for the return he gets in nourishment."

Charalampos prefers to set the nymph's hook by a downward wrist flick, rather than an upward snap. His reason: with a downward movement, the rod tip swings upward for a split-second, thereby hooking the fish.

It apparently works for him. But he admits "there's room for all types of fishing. And that includes reading the good works of Izane Walton and company."

Fishing benevolent fever

Fishing fever is a malady known to infect all sizes, ages and sexes of the human species. Fishing is not an avocation reserved just for fathers.

It is estimated that about 65 million people went fishing at least once last year — ranging from little ones just barely bigger than the fish they caught to senior types whose retirement has permitted fishing to become a fulltime occupation.

More boys and girls each year are learning to fish in summer camp programs and in instructional programs operated by tackle manufacturers, schools, churches and civic organizations.

Fishing has become a featured attraction on family camping expeditions, involving mother and dad and all the youngsters.

Almost anything that swims is fair game for the sport fisherman.

Favorite species vary widely from region to region but panfish such as bream, crappie, bluegills abound in almost every state.

Largemouth bass can be taken in most states and the many varieties of trout can be caught in fresh waters everywhere.

Some northern species such as muskie, walleye, pickerel and lake trout can usually be found only in the northern tier of states and in Canada, although the world record walleye (25 lbs.) was taken from Old Hickory Lake in Tennessee.

Implantation of Coho and Chinook salmon from western U.S. coastal waters into the Great Lakes has provided a whole new sportfishing challenge to fishermen in the upper midwest.

Increasing development of farm ponds and dam-impounded waters has brought many of the traditional "good-catching-and-good-eating" fish into almost every section of the continent.

An old rule of thumb for fresh water fishermen says "the time to fish is early and late." This means, of course, that fish are more likely to be surface feeding during the tranquil hours before sunrise and just after sunset.

An even better rule says

"go fishing whenever the fish are biting."

The early and late rule applies, also, to the time of year — spring and fall in most parts of the country are regarded as being more productive for fisherman than the hottest days of midsummer.

Some people journey far from their homes to enjoy fishing for exotic species while others get as much fun casting for bluegills down behind the old barn or jigging for catfish.

Rushing the season?

Not really...Richard Schiavone, left, of Bangor and Edward Thomas of East Stroudsburg are just having a dress rehearsal for April 15 opening day of the 1972 trout season. (Note to

Angling pals still compete, but not together

By CONRAD GROVE
Pocono Record Reporter

"I remember with particular amusement, men with three-cornered hats fishing in the dawn." — Richard Brautigan, Trout Fishing in America.

STROUDSBURG — Jess Barry and Clarence Williams won't be casting on the same waters this trout season.

After angling almost 60 years with his sidekick, "Sam" Williams is picking his pole and heading for Florida. And Barry figures this might be his last year on the Big Bushkill.

Who's the better fisherman?

"Williams? He's damn good too," proclaims Barry, raring back. "It took me a while to catch on to him."

Williams won't even say. He caught a trout bigger than Barry's biggest. He says it was 24 inches. Barry says 27.

While most anglers have gone to ultra-light equipment, Barry's going out this year with his stiff seven and a-half foot bamboo rod.

And 12-pound test.

"You get ahead of one of those big devils and you got your hands full," says Barry.

"You take a big brown trout now, he may not feed for 10 or 12 days. But when he does, he's a glutton."

Which is why he fishes almost exclusively with two-inch shiners or stripers. On a size four hook. Snelled by himself.

"You work 'em and you jerk 'em," says Barry. "And when they hit, they hit."

The 68-year-old fishes his minnows diagonally, playing the bait back by hand without the reel. He uses a double-swivel hook-up, one by the minnow and one further up the line.

He rigs the bait by passing the hook through the mouth and out by the dorsal fin.

Barry figures he might catch eight good-sized ones the first day. He won't keep that many. As he puts it:

"Mom'll eat one; I'll maybe eat two. Fishing today, well, it's just hog fishing."

"I watched one guy last year who caught his limit four days in a row. He freezes them for the winter. They just catch all they can now."

"When they want to stock, they ought to close the stream up for two or three weeks. It's disgusting. These guys help stock them and when the truck leaves, they're right in the water after them."

"It isn't sport any more. Fishing's just like everything else — it's on the way out."

But if his bursitis doesn't hamper him, Barry says there's still a few big ones he knows about, making tinkling noises from all the hardware hanging on them.

Williams (who thinks he caught the nickname "Sam" from an old fella with a dog by that name) fishes with small wiggly lures.

Called worms.

His secret on fishing is short: "Keep fishing."

He uses a lighter line than Barry, six-to-eight pound test.

The worm is hooked once, just behind the egg sack.

This will be the first opening day he's missed for a while. But he's missing it from choice, not chance, which reminds him of one opening day saga.

Seems a local angler picked his way to a likely looking spot, reached for his worms, and cussed a blue streak. He'd left the worms at home.

Says Williams: "He was just in a hurry to get fishing!" Aren't we all?

Sauce sounds better

Shad recipe sounds good

STROUDSBURG — While most shad recipes call for baking to "melt" the bones from the silver gladiator, here's one handed down by a veteran Pennsylvania angler for broiling.

(It works well if you have the special knack of being able to bone shad.)

Take six strips of Danish bacon, one lemon, one cup white burgundy wine — and, of course, one boned shad.

Pop the two halves of the shad (skin side down) on aluminum foil. Bend up the foil's sides to prevent spillage.

Then squeeze the lemon into a deep dish and add a half-cup of wine. The shad should be marinated by brushing blended lemon juice and wine onto fish. Then lay three strips of bacon lengthwise on each fillet.

Slowly pour the remaining half cup of wine on fish and let marinate at least one hour. Then broil 15 minutes and serve.

(Editor's note: It's also possible to throw the fish away and drink the sauce).

Trout regulations

STROUDSBURG — Here's a quick reference guide for fishermen who didn't bother to read the state's pamphlet:

All about rods, reels and such

Rods and reels, of course, are the principal items of equipment for any family fishing trip. It's more fun for the whole family if everyone has his own rod and reel and it's a good idea to make sure they are in good condition long before heading for the fishing country.

Most manufacturers offer repair service on reels, either in local repair shops around the country or right at the factory. One of the most common problems encountered by repair shops is the lack of sufficient monofilament line on reels to permit good casting. Monofilament line does deteriorate with age, too, and it is a good rule to equip every reel with fresh line at least once a year.

Keeping reels clean and well lubricated will also prevent disappointment when the family is actually out fishing many miles from a tackle repair shop.

Rods should be inspected regularly for possible weak spots that could break when a big fish is hooked, for loose windings around the guides and for signs of rust or wear on handles, guides or tips. Cleaning with a damp cloth and a dab or two of petroleum jelly on critical metal surfaces can keep rods in good condition for many years.

Fishing is a sport that people of every age can enjoy.

Today's tackle manufacturers provide reasonably priced equipment to fit every conceivable fishing need. Small, backlash-proof spin cast reels that even a toddler can manipulate with skill are readily available in kits that include strong lightweight matching rods. Big, rugged reels that Dad might favor are also available with matching, factory-balanced rods.

Sporting goods, hardware, variety stores and bait-and-tackle shops everywhere can not only furnish the right equipment for the family's preferred kind of fishing but can usually give expert advice on how to use and maintain the equipment, when and where to fish and even advice on how to enter your fish in the many prize contests that are held each year.

Soups

By BARBARA GIBBONS

If you have to count your calories, your favorite soup is probably cream-of-anything!

Leave the consommés to the skinnies, we could be fat-ties know that there's nothing more inviting than a steaming mug of cream-of-chicken soup.

Unfortunately, most of those easy-do, can-opener soups have an uncanny affinity for calories — between 200 and 300 per serving, thanks to the starch and fat content. Remember that the next time you run across one of those can-opener casserole recipes that calls for dumping a can of cream soup over leftovers!

Homemade creamed soups are so easy to make... why not be the only lady on your block to make her own? It's a snap with your blender, and you can cut the calories by two-thirds! You won't have to feel guilty about enjoying these soups; they're packed with milk nutrition, but the fat content is so low it barely counts!

fat removed
2 cups skim milk
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
pepper
garlic powder

Melt the butter in a nonstick saucepan and add the mushrooms. Sauté lightly. Add the stock (or use 2 cups water and 2 bouillon cubes). Add the celery, onion and parsley and simmer covered, for 10 minutes. Remove from heat and pour into blender container. Beat on high speed until smooth.

Pour back into saucepan. Mix the milk and flour and add to soup mixture. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until mixture simmers and thickens. Add seasonings to taste. (A shake of Worcestershire sauce or a dash of white wine is a nice addition.) Makes 4 1/2 cups, 90 calories per cupful.

Quick Cream of Chicken Soup — In a saucepan mix 2 cups water, 2 cups skim milk, four chicken bouillon cubes, one-half cup minced celery, 4 tablespoons minced onion and 2 tablespoons flour. Cook and stir over low heat until soup thickens and simmers. Add a dash of paprika. Simmer for 10 minutes. Whirl in blender for extra smoothness (nice but not necessary!) Makes 4 1/2 cups, 72 calories per serving.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

KENNEDY AIRPORT — We remembered the cards all right and, typical of our age and caution, arrived with plenty of time to spare — like about five hours. The problem then arose — where in the soaring-winged structure with its octopus-like arms reaching out to the boarding gates, was there a substitute for a bridge table?

We had a pleasant ride to the airport, piloted by one of our daughters by way of Verazano Bridge, which I've only seen from a boat in the Narrows. The meadows and bicycle paths along the Hudson, the little row-houses and the tide flats make it a different approach to Kennedy than I've ever had before.

Our carefully weighed luggage will be easily located thanks to the gay wool pom-poms which Peg Cramer had made for eight suitcases. We threatened the maze of roads following the orange signs and were deposited, our baggage checked — and still had five hours.

When a corner became vacant in the conversation pit, we arranged ourselves on either side of the barrier which made an acceptable table — if you didn't mind twisting your spine in a 90-degree angle.

It's an excellent way to make friends. The couple next to us is on the same tour to Athens. The young man kibitzing on the other side was only too happy to fill in when one of us was sent out as a scout to look for a more comfortable spot — and he was disconsolate when she returned to report success.

As a matter of fact, a traveling bridge foursome seems to strike a responsive chord in everybody — the porter, the ticket checker, even the young busboy who took our brand new cokes from the counter where we'd parked them in the heat of a rubber. I guess we remind them of their mothers.

Lodge to meet

STROUDSBURG — The Rachael Brodhead Rebekah Lodge will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, at which time plans will be made for a rummage sale to be held May 11 and 12 and the YMCA.

Group joins in Buddhist celebration

EASTON — Members of the Bharatiya Cultural Society recently participated in a ceremony commemorating the birth of Buddha at the Hui-Neng Zen Temple in Easton.

The ceremony was comprised of various prayers and chants of the Korean Zen sect, conducted by the Ven. Song-Ryong (Hearn), the monastery's British-born abbot.

After a luncheon of authentic Eastern cuisine, the abbot and society members drove to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rohini Sinha, both professors at Muhlenberg College, for a business meeting of the society and a discussion of the works of Swami Vivekananda, a renowned Indian philosopher.

The society, which has its headquarters in Blakeslee, has just received its charter as a non-profit educational institution formed to study the culture and philosophy of the East.

Those persons interested in further information may contact Mrs. Jan Price at "Ananda", Route 115, Blakeslee, or telephone 646-2139.

Mrs. Doris Hunt

Doris Hunt to speak at luncheon

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Doris Hunt, wife of New Jersey Cong. John Hunt, will be the featured speaker at the Christian Women's Club of Stroudsburg luncheon at 12 noon, Tuesday, April 18 at the Holiday Inn.

A member of the Congressional Wives Prayer Group and a hostess at the Presidential Prayer Breakfast in February, Mrs. Hunt has been a guest speaker for clubs and organizations in 20 states.

In addition to her talk, there will be a fashion show by the Five-O-Six Bazaar of Stroudsburg. A folk music program will add to the luncheon's program, presented by the Folk Group of Pinebrook Jr. College.

The group has performed in various churches and Youths for Christ meetings. It is comprised of Cheryl Stengle, piano; Steve DeCowsky, guitar; Patrick Cummings, bass violin; and John Barker, James Scott and Barbara Ballard, vocalists.

The charge for the luncheon and program is $2. Nursery charges are 50 cents for one child and $1 for two or more children.

Reservations and cancellations can be made by telephoning 421-0328 or 476-0193.

The national awards program, sponsored by Favorite Recipes Press, is open to home economics teachers in junior and senior high schools.

Five finalists will be selected from the hundreds of entrants to participate in the Blue Ribbon Food Fair scheduled for May 12 and 13 in Chicago, Ill. The finalists will prepare their own recipes for sampling by a panel of judges.

First place entry will receive the grand award of $2,500. Runners-up are eligible for the second place award of $1,000, third place award of $750, fourth place award of $500 and fifth place award of $250.

All recipes submitted for the awards program are judged by a panel of food editors and home economists. The top recipes will be selected for taste, appearance, creativity, originality, and ease of preparation.

Categories in the Blue Ribbon Food Fair are pies — including fruit, cream, custard and chiffon — and pastries — including cream puffs and eclairs, dumplings, fried pies, fritters, turnovers, tarts and tassies.

Auxiliary plans fund projects

TANNERSVILLE — The Pocono Township Volunteer Fire Company Ladies Auxiliary meeting was held recently at the fire house in Tannersville.

Several suggestions were made for fund raising projects for the new addition to the fire house which will include a new kitchen. Two of the projects are now underway.

The group will sell cards, note paper and stationery as soon as these articles are received.

A pancake brunch will be held at 9 a.m., Sunday, April 30. On the menu will be juice, pancakes, sausage and coffee.

The new stainless steel five-gallon coffee urn, to be used to transport coffee to firemen on duty, has arrived and will be put to use at once.

Many fine articles were sold at the auction which followed the meeting.

EAST STROUDSBURG — The executive board of the Pocono Forestry Association, a non-profit organization, recently met at Dale Larn's real estate office in East Stroudsburg.

Jacob E. Kintz, immediate past president, presented the gavel to incoming president Ralph W. Knauf.

The following committees were appointed: Auditing, Sterling R. Wagner, Thomas H. Knepp and W. Adolph Rake; awards, Dale Larn and Forrest Evans; budget, James P. Smith and Elwood Grant; historian, James P. Smith; news letter, John Bitzer, Horace G. Walters and Byron Knapp; nominating, Jacob E. Kintz, Ralph Shupp and William Shearer; program, Anthony Cardwell, Elwood Grant and Carolyn Smith; publicity, Mrs. Elwood Grant and Horace G. Walters; and study group, John Bitzer, Jacob E. The goals of the association, which is primarily devoted to conservation and the ecological environment, are being expressed in three new challenges, according to an association spokesman.

The first is the publication of a special leaflet containing information on proper forest management, conservation practices, wind amelioration, noise abatement, oxygen production and environmental enhancement.

Prepared by Cardwell, an employee of the state Department of Environmental Resources, the leaflet will be made available to all interested persons by contacting the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, P.O. Box 150, Stroudsburg. The second challenge is the association's co-sponsorship of the "Green Belt" Project with the Monroe County Garden Club. Third, the association will be stressing conservation education in the public schools.

Three new members welcomed into the association were Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Allen of R.D. 3 East Stroudsburg and Dale Price of Canadensis.

The next board meeting is scheduled for May 11 at the same location.

Opening lead - two of diamonds.

Bridge is not exactly a lazy man's game. It takes more than just a modicum of hard work to keep coming up with all the right answers to the great variety of problems that regularly unfold.

Instinct alone won't do the job; one must be willing to try to figure out what everybody at the table has, and then what to do about it after the facts are sorted out.

Consider this deal where East is defending against four spades. South wins the diamond lead with the ace, cashes the A-K of hearts, discarding a diamond, and returns the eight of spades. East's play at this point is crucial, and if he puts on his thinking bonnet he defeats the contract. He should rise with the ace, return a low club to West's king, win the club return with the ace, and give partner a club ruff.

Of course, it's easy enough to make this series of plays if you see all 52 cards, but the question is whether East should be clever enough to do so, seeing only 26 cards. The answer is that he should - provided he is willing to go to the bother of assembling the clues at hand.

East knows from the first three plays that declarer started with exactly one heart and two diamonds. It is also reasonable to conclude that South's remaining cards consist of six spades and four clubs, and it is furthermore reasonable to suppose that the contract is absolutely indefensible unless West has the king of clubs.

East consequently reacts to these assumptions by going up with the ace of spades and returning a low club. A lazy player might be reluctant to go to all this trouble and might automatically follow low on the spade, but he would later have cause to regret his deviation of duty.

County teenagers spending freely

Special to The Record
STROUDSBURG — Although many adults in Monroe County chose to cut down their expenditures during the last year or two while waiting for the economic climate to improve, their teenagers did not.

The free-spending youngsters were not bothered in the slightest by talk about inflation, big taxes and the high cost of living.

Because their parents, in most cases, had bigger incomes than in other years and were able to give them larger allowances, they had more money at their command than ever before, an estimated $4,465,000.

And, according to estimates, out it went. It never had a chance to bore holes in their pockets.

The expenditures centered, for the most part, on entertainment, food and hobbies, with cars and gas high on the list for boys and grooming items in the top spot for girls.

The evaluation of the teenage market is based upon the findings of the Youth Research Institute, the Apparel Manufacturers Association and others.

The consensus is that 27 and a half million teenagers in the United States earned, received and spent nearly $20 billion in the past year.

It represents a rate of $730 per year or nearly $14 per week for those in the 13 to 19 set. The young ones get less than that and the older ones get more.

At that average rate, the 6,117 youths in the 13 to 19 age bracket in Monroe County are spending some $4,465,000 a year.

Many of the teenagers in the area earn part of this money by working after school and during their summer vacations. The rest of it comes from cash gifts and weekly allowances.

To retail merchants, of even greater importance than the sales to their teenage customers is the strong influence the youngsters exert on family purchases generally.

Nationally it is estimated that $45 billion of family buying, ranging from cars to furniture and from food to vacation trips, is affected.

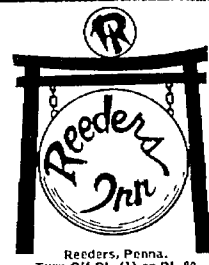

In Monroe County, in line with the overall findings, this influence applies to purchases of about $10,046,000 a year.

ESSC expansion seen to north, east in future

EAST STROUDSBURG — Indications at this point show East Stroudsburg State College expanding slightly north and to the east over the next few decades.

College officials have started to update a three-year-old planning map. Within a year, the college will present its expansion plans to the governor, according to President Darrell Holmes.

Tentative plans indicate no additional houses will be acquired on Ransbury Avenue and no acquisition south, although the college is eyeing an empty field near Interstate 80.

The college contains about 150 acres at present. Some 20 to 30 acres lie largely undeveloped east of the college.

In the 1980s, the possibility exists of acquiring five houses on the east side of Stemple Street near the Lynstan Apartments.

Five houses are now being purchased on Smith Street. A proposed $4.5 million library, approved by the state but awaiting fiscal release, would be located at Smith and Normal Streets.

New dormitory

Holmes is hopeful ground-breaking for the facility can be made by fall, 1974. A new residence hall will open this fall west of Smith Street on the northern portion of the campus.

A proposed $3.2 million fine arts building, also approved but caught in the state's building moratorium, would be placed at the Smith and Normal Streets intersection west of the library.

The General State Authority is now in the process of purchasing about five acres of land east of Koehler Fieldhouse. Included in that tract are 18 homes.

In the undeveloped land toward the Delaware River, an outdoor activities area draws speculation, as well as an outdoor biology area concentrating on life sciences.

An area of about 10 to 20 acres between Interstate 80 and Brown Street could be utilized for future dorms and parking areas, according to Holmes.

Should the land acquisition materialize, the campus would be bordered by a perimeter road, thus creating less vehicular traffic on the campus.

An educational development center may be built in the Campus Learning Center area. Such a facility would stress innovative teaching techniques.

A "human leadership and management" building is another possibility by the 1980s, according to Holmes. No site has been chosen.

Four-day Forest Service confab opens in Bushkill

BUSHKILL — Just miles from the former home of Gifford Pinchot, instrumental in starting interest in forestry, the project leader, administrative officer and branch chief conference of the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service began Tuesday at the Fernwood here.

W.T. Doolittle opened the four-day conference emphasizing the theme of the conference, "Change." He quoted from the writings of Gifford Pinchot who recommended close contact with the forest service and the public.

He said, "There is a need to get the public informed and involved."

Doolittle also dwelled on present and future budget cuts which he said will force the service to tighten its belts resulting in not filling all vacancies, not hiring as much temporary help and cutting down on other expenses, noting the "pinch is on."

The tightening of the belt should not affect advances in the field of civil rights, the director told the group who come from the 14 state Northeastern Forest Experiment Stations. "We have to do better," he stated.

Robert D. Raich, Northeastern Area director of the Forest Service, was the second speaker and spoke at length on changes in the service's relations with state and private forestry groups.

He presented statistics for the Northeastern Area which he pointed out include 106,774,926 people; 414,965,000 acres of land and 163,236,100 acres of forest.

He stressed the importance of interdisciplinary team action and mentioned other objectives of the area.

"These are times of change"

105 tons of newspapers recycled in four months

STROUDSBURG — During the first quarter of 1972, Monroe County residents voluntarily recycled over 105 tons of old newspapers according to figures released by the Monroe County Environmental Action Group.

That figure includes the papers left at the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg borough sheds (which accounted for over 12 tons), and papers collected by Scout troops, and individuals.

It also represents almost $1,500 paid out to these various groups and individuals. According to Mrs. Joannette Saurina, president of the action group, "That is found money. Money that would have been either burned or dumped into landfill if those old papers were not recycled."

The tonnage does not include the papers collected by the Salvation Army from local industries participating in the program nor does it include the newspaper recycling program conducted by the Cherry Valley United Methodist Church.

A spokesman for the environmental organization stated that the group has repeatedly urged county organizations to collect and sell old newspapers to the two local markets, Hagan Manufacturing Co., of East Stroudsburg, and Packaging Corporation of America, Delaware Water Gap, as a source of income.

Residents who do not belong to a group that has its own recycling program are urged to leave their newspapers at either of the two borough sheds on Day Street in East Stroudsburg and N. Fourth Street in Stroudsburg.

The sheds are maintained by the non-profit environmental group. Proceeds derived from the sale of the papers (to Hagan Manufacturing Co. to be recycled into building insulation) are utilized by the group for educational materials and programs.

Action required Thursday

Day Care vote still uncertain

BY CONRAD GROVE
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commission Chairman Nancy Shukaitis refused to speculate Tuesday on whether a county day care proposal will come off the commissioners' table and land in Washington.

The program must have the county's commitment of $10,000 by Friday before an application for federal funds can be made. Mrs. Shukaitis had this to say:

"Any action taken will have to be taken at Thursday's meeting." She said the proposal was "on the agenda."

The proposal was submitted April 5 by Dr. Florence McCormick, day care director at East Stroudsburg State College, and Phyllis Kunda, director of the Children's Bureau.

The concept has been tabled twice since then. "I kind of admire the commissioners' trying to ward off the inevitable," says Miss Kunda.

She was contacted late Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Shukaitis on the project's costs.

County's share

The county's share is 10 per cent of a $100,000 total cost. The federal government would supply 75 per cent of the funds and the state welfare department 15 per cent for first year operation.

"I don't know how long they need to consider a proposal," blasted Miss Kunda.

Dr. McCormick said the commissioners haven't checked the current program at ESSC, serving 28 children with another 35 on a waiting list.

Nor has the trio asked for a breakdown of how the funds would be used, according to Dr. McCormick.

She said close to 75 per cent of the funds would be for salaries for three teachers and 19 paraprofessionals. Emphasis would be placed on culturally deprived or low-income families.

This excludes any volunteer work. Should the board approve the proposal, plans at this point call for three day care centers — two in the Stroudsburg and one in Tobyhanna — plus two day care homes.

Progress made

Based on five months of operation at ESSC, Dr. McCormick sees "a great deal" of academic and social progress by the children, coming mostly from the middle-income bracket.

"Rather than remedial problems of children after they enter school, we should be concerned with developing the child's potential before school."

A year ago, she believes a favorable day care decision by the commissioners would have been an unpopular decision. "But I think the community supports this now," she stressed.

"If Monroe County is ever to have day care," said Miss Kunda, "it has to be done now. If this county doesn't get the $75,000, some other county will because it's there. As a taxpayer, I'd resent the money not coming back to my county."

Aid community

Miss Kunda said the federal government won't provide funding for such a program next year; only granting monies for ongoing programs. "There's no question it would help the community if we had such a program," asserts Carmine DiPronio, executive director of the county office of public assistance.

He said a survey last year indicated about 60 children aged two-to-four would participate. Half of the mothers said they would work if they could place their child in a day care facility.

Dr. McCormick's figures, based on active public assistance cases in February with children aged 12 months to five years, indicate 101 potential clients.

That breaks down to 79 per cent in the Stroudsburgs, 12 per cent in the Tobyhanna-Mount Pocono area, six per cent in the West End and three per cent in Barrett Township.

Driving charge dismissed

STROUDSBURG — Glen Fisher, Minisink Hills, was found not guilty in Monroe County Court Tuesday of a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Fisher waived a trial before a jury and requested the case be heard only by president Judge Arlington W. Williams.

In testimony to the court Fisher claimed he never received notice of suspension of his driving privileges nor did he ever have a hearing before the Department of Revenue. He had requested such a hearing in a letter to the department last Dec. 6.

Judge Williams dismissed the charge by reason that the Commonwealth, led by Monroe County Assistant District Attorney C. Daniel Higgins, failed to meet the proof of prosecution.

He said the Commonwealth only gave fragmentary statements to support the charge when they had the opportunity to bring in Department of Revenue witnesses and better substantiate proof of suspension.

Fisher was defended by Atty. Bernard Billick, county public defender.

In other court action, Bernard Counterman, Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing an officer in the process of his duty and jumping bail. A presentence investigation will be carried out prior to sentence.

Floyd Reynolds, of Stroudsburg, also entered a guilty plea to a charge of corrupting the morals of a minor. A presentence investigation was also ordered in his case.

Katz tops oratory contest

EAST STROUDSBURG — Gregory Katz, a sophomore at East Stroudsburg High School, won the 1972 Boy's Oratorical Contest Tuesday night at the Elks Club.

Katz, who said he worked "a good month" preparing his speech, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Katz.

Second prize went to Ben Gelber, also an East Stroudsburg sophomore and son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gelber, with third place awarded to Peter Lindborg, Notre Dame High School.

The topic for this year's contest, sponsored by the Optimist Club of the Stroudsburgs, was "Our Challenge — Involvement."

"Recently, an elderly woman was stabbed while 38 witnesses stood by. Not one came to her aid," Katz said.

"Just why don't people get involved? Is it because they are uninformed of the methods of involvement, is it because they are afraid of getting hurt, or is it because they are too selfish to contribute their abilities to involvement?"

"We cannot shut our eyes and withdraw from the world," Katz continued. "We cannot shut out eyes and pretend problems do not exist. We cannot shut our eyes and ignore the existence of pollution, crime, drug addiction and the endless list of other social problems."

He concluded by saying, "We need involvement, not only for the benefit of others, but also for the benefit of ourselves. It gives purpose to one's life and turns a boy into a man."

"Its rewards are dignity, confidence and self-respect. It is therapy for the frustrated, strength for the weak and fulfillment for the strong."

Cummings Piatt, East Stroudsburg principal and advisor to both Katz and Gelber, said "I think their dedication paid off its dividends. I'm proud of the way they represented themselves, their school and their parents."

Katz will receive a $25 bond for winning. Winners of local contests now compete in district events. A preliminary contest is held during the annual Optimist convention in October, with the winner of the finals receiving a $2,000 college scholarship and three runner-ups netting $1,000 scholarships.

Other contestants were Tim

Schollenberger, of Cresco, Pocono Mountain; John Grady, of Mount Pocono, Pocono Central Catholic; Jeffery Conley, of Cresco, Pocono Central Catholic; Scott Mackin, of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Pocono Central Catholic; Steven Hay, of Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg High, and Marc Lovechio, of East Stroudsburg, Notre Dame.

E.S. planners table action on off-campus residences

By A.P. CESARE
Pocono Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — Off campus student housing applications crowded the agenda of the East Stroudsburg Planning Commission Tuesday night.

However, the commission found numerous requirements lacking in the applications and placed the forms aside for further study. Sufficient parking facilities was one of the key points hampering approval on many of the applications.

A request from Guy Marotta to change a one-family residence at 331 Crystal Street to a student residence was tabled for the second time. Originally the commission turned it down until plans were submitted to show landscaping of property and that the structure would be improved to meet the present building code.

Revised plans as presented Tuesday still did not reach the requirements.

The commission also took under full study an application from Anthony and Marion Harlaacher for a student residence on one side of a double house at 263-285 Broadhead Ave.

The residence is in R-2A zone. By virtue of the space depicted in the plans submitted, only two student residents could be accommodated. The zoning law requires 1.5 parking spaces per student. The plan showed three parking spaces.

Glenn Detrick of Stroudsburg R.D. 1, was told his application for an establishment on Prospect Street would require further study.

Detrick requested that a business building be constructed next to the present laundromat. The building would consist of food vending machines and amusement equipment.

The site is zoned R-2A but a commercial building may be established because one was existing prior to the new zoning ordinance. The property owners, however, have a one-year period in which to re-establish the commercial enterprise.

Car forced off highway

POCONO PINES — A 39-year-old Blakeslee woman escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when her car was forced off Route 940 in Pocono Pines and struck a sign.

Doris A. Madden received minor injuries in the crash but refused treatment at the scene.

Pennsylvania State Police from the Fern Ridge barracks said Mrs. Madden told them a westbound car swerved out of its lane and into the eastbound lane in which she was traveling. In an effort to avoid a head-on collision, she ran off the highway on the

Congressman blasts Nixon

Rooney hits school funds

Offaway News Service
Washington Bureau

BETHLEHEM — The Nixon Administration is "playing Russian roulette with educational funding... and five chambers are empty," Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-15, said Monday night.

Rooney, speaking at the Lehigh University Conference of Principals, said that the President has called for increased aid to the educationally disadvantaged because it is suddenly "politically expedient."

"Nixon wants off the bus and on the bandwagon," Rooney said. "Educators across the country ought to be asking where he (Nixon) has been the past three years."

Rooney told his audience, composed of secondary school principals from Monroe, Lehigh, Northampton, Bucks, Berks and Carbon Counties, that if Nixon really wants to face the education problem, "he need only call for full funding" as provided for in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The President, said Rooney, as requested only $1.6 billion of the $6 billion Congress has authorized for education in 1973.

In fact, President Nixon has never asked full funding for education programs in general and has never requested full funding of the "Elementary and Secondary Education Act," Rooney noted.

Instead, the Bethlehem Congressman said, Nixon has vetoed appropriations increased by Congress for education programs, including the 1971 education appropriations bill.

At present, Nixon has called for a $2.5 billion appropriations bill to achieve equal education opportunity.

Critics of this proposal, including Rooney, point out that $1.3 billion of this total has already been appropriated by Congress under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Rooney, in addressing the regional educators also reiterated his own stand on busing. "When busing was first advanced as a solution, I envisioned short distance busing between schools in close proximity to one another," he said.

"But it soon became apparent that in actual practice, busing involved long-distance transportation of children to schools far beyond their neighborhoods," said Rooney.

The congressman several times said he could not support such long-distance busing when it interfered with other aspects of a pupil's daily curriculum.

Tocks forum scheduled

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Army Corps of Engineers, the Delaware River Basin and General Public Utilities, a major holding company prominent in planning power facilities for the area, have been invited to a special public forum on the Tocks Island Dam issue.

The invitations were extended Tuesday by the Stop Tocks

Committee, an ad hoc group of area residents and college students.

The Tocks forum will be held at 2 p.m. April 22 in a local community center, according to a committee spokesman. The exact location of the forum will be announced at a later date.

A committee spokesman said, "Occurring just three days prior to the April 25 primary election, the forum will allow local residents to gain information about the dam before voting on the Tocks Island question on election day."

The committee was prominent in having the Monroe County Commissioners place the Tocks question on the ballot.

The spokesman continued, "To insure a fair minded exchange of views, the Commit-

Owners turn down players' latest offer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball's strike negotiations remained stalled Tuesday night when the executive director of the Players Association, Marvin Miller, emerged from a direct and telephone conversations with the clubowners' chief negotiator without a settlement.

Miller said the clubowners' chief negotiator who had been in phone contact with the owners all day had told him that the owners had rejected the players' latest proposal.

"The Owners Player relations committee," Miller said, "for the 7,000th time has turned down our proposal."

Miller and the player representatives met again Tuesday night at a midtown restaurant and Miller revealed still another proposal made by the players.

The proposal calls for the players to "give the owners complete control of the 1972 baseball schedule."

Miller would not spell out exactly what he meant by the latest offer but it was assumed the players would agree to let the owners make up the missed games in any fashion they pleased but it was obvious the players were still holding out for full salaries if all 162 games are played.

Before breaking for dinner at 8:30 p.m., Miller said he expected to hear from Gaherin on the latest offer by 10 p.m.

"However, Miller indicated that the pension problem, which had earlier been a stumbling block, is "clearly solvable now," Miller said he suggested to Gaherin that "we postpone the salary payment issue until later in the season when tempers have cooled and the situation can be more realistically realized."

The players offered to postpone the issue of whether they would forfeit pay for games missed during the strike until late in the season at which time they would have many more facts to clarify the situation as to how many games they had missed at that time and how many games they would have to make up.

"The primary issue now is the length of the season," he added. "The owners are saying there will be no settlement until the players are appropriately punished," Miller said. "We are now dealing with emotions and that is the hardest thing to settle in any negotiations."

Miller said the Player Relations Committee has called a meeting in Chicago Thursday and said, "I'm hopeful emotions will have cooled by then and the strike can be settled and if so play can still begin on Friday."

"The owners are again demanding surrender," Miller said. "They are insisting that they have the right to spank the players like little boys. I think a settlement should have been made last Saturday. I can't predict what the owners will do between now and Thursday."

They have the ability to prolong the strike."

Asked if he was worn down physically, Miller said, "Yes, but I'm stronger than I look. The players have been a great revelation to me."

Miller said about eight owners are prolonging the strike.

"It's not realistic that baseball would not be played this season," he added.

During a three-hour luncheon conference with Miller, executive director of the Player Association, the player representatives decided to reject an offer made by the owners Monday night to contribute $400,000 into the players pension fund. The players counter-proposed an owners' contribution of $600,000 provided that they be paid their full salaries if all 162 games of the schedule are played.

Gaherin left the conference late in the afternoon to return to his office, where he presumably was going to meet or telephone the owners to update them on the situation.

Miller, emerging from the meeting room with a dejected look on his face, said he was waiting for Gaherin to reach him and renew the meeting.

Told that he didn't look like a man ready to announce a settlement, Miller replied: "I'm not."

If fewer than 162 games were played the players agreed to assume a loss at the rate of the number of days missed in the season divided by 182, the number of days in the season.

At that point Miller informed Gaherin, chief negotiator for the clubowners, of the counter proposal by telephone and Gaherin contacted the owners, who, except for a few who are in New York, were scattered around the country.

In mid-afternoon Gaherin joined Miller at the Four Seasons Restaurant where the players were assembled. The two men went to a private conference room.

"We are obviously at a crucial point in our attempts to resolve this dispute," Miller said. "We think that with a sincere effort on both sides we can possibly reach a settlement sometime today."

Phil Jackson of the New York Knicks, appears to be getting off a field goal attempt as he puts his foot to the ball during an Archie Clark dribble in their NBA game Tuesday. Clark's 31 points, high for the game, weren't enough as the Knicks won the game, 107-101, and took the series, four games to two.

Pair of steals by Frazier helps Knicks win series

NEW YORK (UPI)—A pair of steals by Walt Frazier in the final two minutes guided the New York Knicks to a 107-101 victory over the Baltimore Bullets Tuesday to take the first round of the NBA playoff series 4 games to 2.

A short jump shot by Bill Bradley put New York in front for good 97-95 and Frazier immediately followed with a pair of foul shots after he stole the ball from the Bullets' Archie Clark.

After Bradley pushed New York in front 101-97, Frazier again stole the ball on a Baltimore inbound pass to open a six-point New York margin.

The tenacious Knick defense which held Baltimore to an average 96.0 point for the first five games, limited the Bullets to only six points in the final two and one half minutes.

The Knicks, who lost to Baltimore in seven games last year, now meet the Boston Celtics for the Eastern Conference title. The survivor then plays the winner of the Los Angeles-Milwaukee series for the league championship.

Frazier led the Knicks with 21 points. Jerry Lucas tallied 22 for New York and his forward partner Dave DeBusschere had 20. Archie Clark clicked for 31 to lead all scorers for Baltimore and Jack Marin added 21 for the Bullets. Ex-Knicks Mike Jordan also had 19 for Baltimore.

New York went on a 14-2 surge midway through the first quarter to grab a 21-12 lead but the Bullets, who stalled the Knicks victory drive with two home court triumphs, refused to die. They grabbed a 59-56 lead with seven minutes to go in the third quarter.

New York returned with a 9-2 surge for a 67-59 lead, but Baltimore rallied again with an identical explosion to trail 69-68. Two foul shots by Lucas with one second remaining gave New York a 75-74 lead entering the fourth quarter. Baltimore tied it four times in the final period and went ahead by four 95-91 with 2:30 to go in the game. The Knicks then got eight straight points to go ahead for good.

Jabbar scored 33 points and picked off 18 rebounds to outduel his 35-year-old Laker rival, Wilt Chamberlain.

"I didn't expect it to go like it did," said the 7-foot-2 Milwaukee center. "It's impossible to explain. And their eighth regular season games shot only 27 per cent from the floor."

After Wednesday night's game, the series moves to Milwaukee for games No. 3 and 4 next Friday night and Sunday. "Well," said Chamberlain somewhat philosophically, "Milwaukee lost its home court advantage by losing to Golden State in the first game but still won the series."

Los Angeles Lakers, a club that did, meet Wednesday night in playoff game No. 2 of the National Basketball Association's super powers.

On the basis of their NBA record 69 wins and four victories in five regular season meetings with the Bucks, the Lakers went into the series as 9-5 favorites.

But Kareem Jabbar and his teammates took Los Angeles' high-powered offense apart Sunday, holding the Lakers to only eight points in the third quarter in a 93-72 victory.

For the Lakers, it was the lowest point total in the franchise's 12-year history. The Los Angeles team which scored 100 points or better in 81 of 82 regular season games shot only 27 per cent from the floor.

"No great shooting team like that shoots 27 per cent unless there's some defense being played," Milwaukee coach Larry Costello said. "Defense wins games and we proved it."

"I've never seen a Laker team shoot that badly," said Jerry West, who has been in Los Angeles ever since the club was moved from Minneapolis in 1960.

Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman pointed out that his team took Chicago four straight in its opening playoff series and wrapped up the Bulls last Tuesday night while the Bucks beat Golden State in five games ending Thursday night.

"I think," Sharman said, "the worst thing that hurt us was that five-day layoff. Milwaukee had a tough game against Golden State Thursday night and that momentum carried over."

Hockey teams may strike; Hawks protest stick rule

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday initiated a protest against National Hockey League limitations on hockey stick curvature that could lead to a strike of all players now engaged in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Black Hawks voted unanimously to request the league to drop its rules of checking stick curvatures. They met with Alan Eagelson, executive director of the NHL Players Association who said he plans to seek similar votes by other teams in the playoffs.

Eagelson said if the other clubs vote to back the Black Hawks they will refuse to play unless checking of stick curvature is discontinued.

Hockey sticks are now limited to a half-inch curvature.

Each stick bears a stamp of approval by a league official.

But a second check on a stick used by Dennis Hull in Pittsburgh last week resulted in a fine against the Black Hawk forward.

The Black Hawks contend that once the stick had been stamped as approved, there was no need for a double check.

Eagelson said "there's no way" Hull's fine can stand.

"Their official (Dutch Van Deelen) inspected Hull's stick and okayed it. Then Clarence Campbell (league president) comes along and overrules him. That is plain Gestapo tactics, and we won't stand for it."

Eagelson said he plans to talk to teams in New York today.

Montreal defeats Rangers to remain alive in series

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Roberts scored the decisive goal in the opening minutes of the final period and the proud Montreal Canadiens stood fast for a 2-1 victory over the New York Rangers Tuesday night to remain alive in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The defending Cup champions, figured by many to be ready for the kill after dropping a tough 6-4 game in Montreal Sunday night, fell behind in the fifth game on a power-play goal by Vic Hadfield but then rallied back to narrow their deficit in this best-of-seven quarter-final series to 3-2.

The sixth game will be played at Montreal Thursday night and the seventh, if necessary, back in New York Sunday.

Just 2-1 minutes after Hadfield collected his fourth goal of the series at 4:24 of the second period, big Frank Mahovlich drew Montreal even by bursting through the middle between defenseman Rod Seiling and Jim Neilson to come in alone on goalie Ed Giacomin.

Giacomin came out about 25 feet from the net to meet the onrushing Mahovlich, but the Canadian forward carried the puck around Giacomin and shot it into the net from the side.

Roberts then got the winner at 3:12 of the third period when he came down with Pete Mahovlich on a two-on-one break. Roberts, skating down the right lane, elected to shoot the puck himself and sent it high into the New York net.

The Rangers removed Giacomin for a sixth skater with 1:31 left to play but didn't come close to challenging Montreal goalie Ken Dryden.

Dryden once again was outstanding, making a total of 33 saves.

Stars take lead with 4-2 victory

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Jude Drouin scored early in the third period to give the Minnesota North Stars a 4-2 win over the St. Louis Blues in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals after J.P. Parise's power play goal tied the score three minutes earlier Tuesday night.

The win gave the Stars a 3-2 game edge in the best-of-seven series which now moves to St. Louis for the sixth game Thursday night.

Drouin came in on the goal as Bill Goldsworthy passed the puck out from the right corner of the net. Drouin fired into the left corner from about 10 feet at 5:45.

Parise stole the puck from Bob Plager after St. Louis brought it back into their own zone trying to kill a penalty. The puck came off Plager's skate and he was trying to clear it and Parise picked it up and went in alone, beating out Blues goalie Jacques Caron for the score at 2:55.

Gary Unger put the Blues ahead 3-2 when he took a pass from Jack Egers, turned and fired the puck home at 19:34.

The Blues had a two-man advantage for nearly a minute in the middle when Dennis Hextall was called for elbowing at 9:32 and Ted Harrison for tripping at 10:43, but the Stars successfully held off the penalty.

Bruins gain division final with 3-2 win over Toronto

BOSTON (UPI)—Ken Hodge lifted a short, five-footer over goalie Bernie Parent with 7:38 gone in the final period Tuesday night to give Boston a 3-2 win over the Toronto Maple Leafs and send the Bruins into the semifinals of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Boston, a 4-1 series victor over Toronto, will meet the winner of the Minnesota-St. Louis series in the semifinals beginning next week.

Phil Esposito set up the winning goal with a perfect pass to Hodge through heavy traffic in front of the Toronto net. Hodge waited for Parent to make his move, then fired the puck over the Toronto netminder's right shoulder.

The score came just one minute and 29 seconds after Toronto center Norm Ullman tied the game at 2-2 with a 10-footer that went in over defenseman Bobby Orr and goalie Gerry Cheevers, who both fell to the ice in the Boston crease.

Cavaliers gain win; Stroudsburg defeated in seventh

Pen Argyl defeated by 3-0

EAST STROUDSBURG — Bob Beck continued East Stroudsburg's stingy pitching with a three-hitter and Dan Whitaker and Kim Walek each had two hits Tuesday to lead the Cavaliers to a 3-0 baseball win over Pen Argyl.

Beck gave up just three singles and walked one man. He struck out six. The left-hander was so effective, he allowed just one runner to third base.

The Cavaliers, now 3-0, got all their runs in the fifth inning. Beck walked and went to second on Charlie Gallagher's infield out. He then scored on Walek's single to left.

Whittaker then singled, but Walek, who had gone to second on the throw to home on Beck's run, was thrown out at third. Pat Boushelli then unloaded a triple to drive in Whittaker and the left-fielder scored on an error by Rhys Williams in the outfield.

Steve Gagar got the first Pen Argyl hit in the third. Williams singled in the fifth and Steve Kopko in the seventh. Freshman Ted Lang took the loss.

Renfro, Roberson ignite Cavaliers to track victory

EAST STROUDSBURG — Jim Renfro set a record in the triple jump and joined Herm Roberson in winning three events Tuesday as East Stroudsburg won its first track meet of the year, a 76-46 decision over Nazareth.

Renfro, who had cracked his own record in the triple jump last week with a jump of 38-3, leaped 39-2½ Tuesday. He also won the pole vault in 10-6 and the long jump in 20-3.

Roberson took the 100-yard dash in 10.7, came back to win the 220 in 24.2 and finished off his effort with a 55.4 in the 440.

Todd Samet took two events, winning the shot put with a toss of 45-11½ and the discus in 128-1. Dan Simms also won two events, taking the 880-yard run in 2:13.4 and the high jump with a leap of 5-8.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Phil Silvers is pure brassy gold in the "Tummy Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" revival. Far better in the role originated years ago by Zero Mostel. Unless of course you like sweaty comedians . . . took two young ladies, 13 & 14, to see "Two Gentlemen of Verona," and if anything it's even more wildly delightful than opening night. The kids on stage plainly enjoy the delicious fun . . . Big yellow checker cab packed with half a dozen revelers pulled up in front of El Morocco in the early Sunday a.m. and the chauffeur was Gianni Uzielli. Henry Ford's son-in-law, who then turned it back to the passenger-riding cabbie . . . Sports Illustrated star Dan Jenkins' novel "Semi-Tough" was grabbed by Playboy for pre-publication excerpts. It's touted as one of the finest of the decade.

Gore Vidal joined the late-late P. J. Clarke's crowd after staying over his imminent Betsy, play which knocks Nixon, Kennedy, Johnson — and even George Washington! . . . Teddie O'Sullivan, an owner of Dublin's justly famed Gresham Hotel, also joined our late-late P.J.'s fun . . . In "21," Baseball Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg with toycoon Dave Marx bemoaned the diamond strike. Hank looks in good enough shape to make another Series.

Burgess Meredith joined us in "21" and told us about Franchot Tone's lad Pat, who literally last time we saw him was being carried by Franchot in a blue blanket on Lower 5th Ave. Easter Sunday 1944 at age six weeks. Buzz M. says the lad, who safely grew up nobly despite the small wars of his colorful parents (mom is Jean Wallace), has progressed from teaching at Collegiate School (where John John Kennedy studies) to owning his own college (Franklin). It's the whole truth, Meredith swears . . . David Merrick & wife didn't look worried about his upcoming "Sugar" musical's chances on Bdwy. over their "21" supper . . .

Where former MGM veep Charlie Boagle said N.Y. is a nice place to visit but he prefers his retirement home in Monte Carlo.

Great ad for Ohrbach's store: Doris Duke of the heiressocracy, who could buy not only custom-made originals but all the European fashion houses themselves, took six of Ohrbach's spiffy copies . . . A couple of other well-heeled gals, Eunice Kennedy Shriver and Diana Sands, also thrifted with other cost-less O. copies.

Multi-millionaire music publisher-songwriter Chester Conn went to Hawaii for a long winter vacation, was hauled off to the hospital with N.Y. caught pneumonia the day he arrived, suffered a heart attack while there, recovered weeks later and went back to the Royal Hawaiian Hotel to rest, tripped and hit his head when he fell against a metal somesuch and was sped back to the hospital — concussion. Called it a vacation finally and flew back to N.Y., where he immediately was bedded with exhaustion. Some rest. Okay now.

Perry Como was completely mobile despite his busted leg as he sang to the Nat'l Record Manufacturers' convention in Florida — from a golf cart . . . And from a "confidential report for the music and radio industries" comes this heartening excerpt: "The real sentiments of the NARM members came out when Perry Como appeared. Perry softly crooned three or four ballads and at the finish there was absolute pandemonium — cheers and whistles with the entire audience, longhaired and shorthaired, leaping to their feet in a standing ovation. This tribute to a top M.O.R. (sic) artist, coming from the people who sell most of the records in this country, makes you stop and wonder — about whether the Who's Who of record label executives (most of them attended) grasped the full significance of what they saw . . . and just how the story of what really happened will be reported by the papers. It was an amazing revelation and hard to believe — just ask the leading record merchant in your city who was probably there." . . . Indeed: and the biggest glut on the music market now are rock groups; literally hundreds are jobless.

British vocalist Neil Reid's album, "Mother of Mine," hit No. 1 in Britain and is hotcaking up the charts here. Neil's 12 . . . The record mfrs. who went wild when Como sang "kept walking out in droves through the rock act" . . . Singer Karen Morrow was starred in last week's quick-fold musical, "Selling of the President" — her fifth flop in a row! . . . Sinatra's unloaded his London flat and is said to be peddling his Manhattan and Acapulco pads . . . June Allyson of the touring "No, No, Nanette" is yes-yesing Texan Clark Richards.

Met veteran character comedienne Ruth Donnelly at Easter dinner in the St. Regis King Cole Room. Ruth's saved her money and is a well-off semi-retiree but couldn't resist some legitstage minicution: she's standby for Patsy Kelly in "Nanette" tho she doesn't need the money . . . Another King Cole Room table (big one) was hostessed by Baroness Nina Van Pallandt of the notorious Clifford Irving affair, the right word, now singing in the chic St. Regis Maisonette. Her Easter guests included her mother, her three children, manager and others; she certainly is a beautiful woman. Wore an all-enfolding Alpan outfit which couldn't camouflage her lighthouse smile.

David Niven, whose autobiography, "The Moon's a Balloon," is fascinating, charming, candid fun, succumbed to a big-money lecture tour starting in the fall. He'll be the lecture-ladies' darling . . . Girl clown Joan Rivers' secretary is a man, Archie Walker. Hired Archie away from the Downstairs spot where he was headwriter . . . Stiller & Meura are picking up a mini-fortune on the Blue Nun wine commercials. Write them, too; very funny.

Bobby Darin and his model companion, Andrea Yeager, are house-hunting in London. Introduces her everywhere thus: "This is my wife. But we're not married." Paramount paid more for Al Pacino's release so he could do "The Godfather" than Pacino got for that starring role . . . Victor Borge needed a latecomer after a concert started. "Why are you late? I came from Denmark and I got here on time."

RCA's classical records merchandise the great masters a la Elvis: "Franz Liszt's Greatest Hits of the 1850s" is the pop-book of the album-title of a Red Seal LP by Jorge Bolet . . . George Hamid Jr. put together a "typical" vauvauville show for an imminent David Frost Show . . . George said his favorite performers are Como, Sinatra, Shore etc. The most difficult? No hesitation: "Big name male comics."

Ann Landers

Lunch moochers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think this letter is a phony just because it comes from New Haven. I'm in high school, not Yale, so please excuse me. My problem has to do with my best friends. When it's time for lunch we go somewhere to eat. I'm the only one who brings a lunch. My two friends never bring anything. They say they aren't very hungry at noon. When I start to unwrap my lunch, they say, "Gee that smells good," or, "Boy that looks yummy," and I end up splitting my lunch three ways.

I got pretty coked off a few weeks ago and told them I wasn't going to split my lunch with them any more. They said, "O.K. you don't have to share if you don't want to. We just like your company." So for two days I didn't give them anything and they just sat and looked starved. I felt like a heel. The third day I divided my lunch three ways and I've been doing it ever since.

These are good kids and I have no one else to eat with. I'd hate to eat alone. What should I do?

Trapped in A Triangle Dear Trapped: Are you game to experiment? For one solid week, eat a big breakfast and don't bring a lunch. Meet your friends as usual and tell them you've decided to cut down on your food intake. Since they claim they enjoy your company, this will be a good test of their sincerity.

If after a week they do not bring their own lunches or seek another companion, it's safe to assume that they are not total free-loaders — only partial. You should then accept the fact that nobody's perfect and go back to the three-way split.

Dear Ann Landers: Is it legal for a person to make out a will without consulting an attorney? I am confused about this because I have asked two lawyers and received conflicting answers. I know you have the best consultants in the country and hope you will give me a yes or no.

My husband and I are not wealthy, but we want to make sure that what we have is distributed properly after we are gone. We want to avoid cutting in a lawyer on our estate if possible. Thank you in advance.

San Jose Couple Dear Couple: It is perfectly legal to draw up a will without professional help. There are several hazards, however, and I don't recommend it. For example, in Illinois two individuals must be present to witness each other signing the will, and both must in turn witness the spectator who signs the will. If details such as these are not attended to, it might be impossible to have the will admitted to probate. You didn't ask me, but I'm telling you — don't be penny wise and pound foolish. Consult a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been looking at your picture in the Salt Lake Tribune for a long time and I just figured out where I know you from. It hit me all of a sudden. My memory took me back to World War Two. You worked as a Bedouin belly dancer under the name of Fat Oola — followed the troops through North Africa and Italy. You weren't fat but the name was a catchy one.

Obviously you snagged a fellow named Landers and your native intelligence has carried you far. Heartiest congratulations. Any girl who can make it from the night club circuit to the newspaper business, I take my hat off to.

W. C. M. Dear W.C.M.: Keep your hat on. You've got the wrong number.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Mercury Comet is wider, roomier, heftier and has a bigger engine than VW, Toyota, Datsun or Opel.

So how come the price is about the same?

	PRICE	WHEELBASE (INCHES)	OVERALL LENGTH (INCHES)	WEIGHT (LBS.)	FRONT (LBS.)	ENGINE (CU IN.)
MERCURY COMET 2-door	$2,232*	103.0	181.7	2697	56.5	170.0
VW SUPER BEETLE 2-door	$2,159*	95.3	161.8	1918	54.3	96.6
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600 2-door	$2,109*	91.9	161.4	1915	49.4	96.9
DATSUN PL510 2-door	$2,306*	95.3	160.2	2039	50.4	97.3
OPEL 2-door	$2,175*	95.1	161.6	1981	49.3	115.8

Mercury Comet 2-door sedan. Shown with optional exterior Decor Group ($50.04) and VSW tires ($25.99).

Sticker prices of the imports have increased. But Mercury Comet's price has stayed about the same.

Mercury designed Comet to be the better small car. We didn't design it to be in the same price class as the little imports. It just turned out that way, thanks to recent monetary developments and cost increases. Now the sticker prices of the imports listed above have increased by at least $170 since January 1971. But Mercury Comet is within $15 of its sticker price at that time.

Mercury Comet's longer wheelbase gives a solid, smooth, comfortable ride.

Comet is a lot more automobile than the imports listed. It has a longer wheelbase, greater length, wider stance and bigger tires. So you get an amazingly smooth and comfortable ride, solid road holding, and remarkable stability in Comet. You get a ride Mercury is proud to call its own.

Mercury Comet's bigger engine has six cylinders, not just four.

Comet's standard six-cylinder engine operates economically, yet packs up to 73.4 more cubic inches. Optional engines available include 200 and 250 cu. in. Sixes or a 302 cu. in. V-8.

Look at all the convenience and luxury features that are standard on Mercury Comet.

The Comet has an expensive look outside and in. On the outside you get a bold, handsome grille, wheel lip moldings, heavy bumpers and dual body paint stripes. Inside you'll find deep, 100% nylon carpeting, armrests front and back, foam-padded front seat cushion, deluxe steering wheel and a lighted front ashtray. All standard equipment.

Comet is built to Lincoln-Mercury's high standards.

Comet has a thick, hefty drive shaft. The doors are made of heavy gauge steel. In fact, Comet is crafted with the same high-quality steel and acrylic enamel as the highest priced Lincoln-Mercury cars. When we call it "the better small car," it's not just a slogan. It's a fact. And with the new small-car price picture, Comet's the car to see. And drive. And own.

Mercury. Better ideas make better cars. At the sign of the cat.

Postal inspectors do more than trace pornographers

By THOMAS J. BRAY
Dow Jones-Ortway News
Shortly after Howard Hughes denounced Clifford Irving's "autobiography" of him as a hoax, postal inspectors in Washington received a letter from Irving's lawyer, Martin Ackerman.

Ackerman suggested that Irving was the victim of a hoax himself — involving a ring of con men using a Miami postal box as their base of operations — and demanded an investigation. The postal inspectors obliged, but as the world now knows, the results weren't quite what Ackerman or his client had in mind.

With an impressive display in international detective work, a six-man team of inspectors rapidly built up an airtight case against Irving and his wife.

A Spanish-speaking inspector, for example, descended on Majorca to collar a key witness as he was packing his bags for a hurried trip elsewhere. German singer Nina van Pallandt was traced to a Caribbean cabaret — though inspectors knew only her first name and believed they were looking for a British entertainer — and testified that Irving had had little time to interview Hughes or anybody else on a trip to Mexico the writer took with her.

And postal lab technicians nailed the case shut when they concluded that the Hughes signature on checks and documents had been forged by Irving himself — despite the fact that a leading handwriting analyst had previously "authenticated" the signatures as those of Hughes.

Faced with the evidence, Clifford and Edith Irving last month pleaded guilty to a variety of state and federal fraud and conspiracy charges. Sentencing was set for mid-June. "The inspectors did a sensational job," says John J. Tighe Jr., the federal prosecutor who handled the case. "The whole Postal Inspection Service deserves a lot more credit than it gets."

Most prosecutors would agree. The Postal Inspection Service, with 1,500 inspectors, is the nation's oldest federal law-enforcement agency tracing its origins to colonial times. (Benjamin Franklin was appointed the equivalent of a postal inspector in 1737.) But the Postal Inspection Service is also probably the nation's least known enforcement outfit.

Partly, that results from the service's secrecy, an outgrowth of the Post Office's desire to maintain the privacy of the mails. Also, much of the service's efforts are devoted to such seemingly humdrum activities as auditing the nation's 34,000 Post Offices, hunting down mailbox thieves and keeping an eye on the endless number of fraudulent schemes, ranging from hair restorers to fake charity drives, that use the mail to bilk the public.

"When people think about us — if they think about us at all — it's usually to wonder what we're doing about some two-bit mail-order pornographer," says one inspector.

Increasingly, however, postal inspectors are becoming involved in a full range of federal investigative activities. In addition to the Hughes case, for example, postal inspectors played a key role in the investigation of a Washington home-improvement concern that subsequently led to the conviction of Rep. John Dowdy (D., Texas) in Baltimore federal court on conspiracy and perjury charges in connection with an alleged bribe from the concern.

And a lengthy international investigation by postal investigators led to the arrest in late January of 22 men indicted in an alleged loan swindle that is said to have cost 45 corporate and individual victims as much as $170,000 apiece.

The 22 men were accused of selling loan commitments backed by worthless shell corporations, including the Bank of Sark on the Isle of Guernsey off the coast of England.
